SESSION OUTLINE

In a nutshell, the Three-Box Solution describes the framework for managing a business's responsibility to take action in three time horizons at once:

Box 1: Executing the present core business at peak efficiency.

Box 2: Taking steps to avoid the inhibiting traps of past success.

Box 3: Inventing a future built on nonlinear ideas.

The Workshop shows the distinctive skills each box requires, how the boxes interrelate, and what it takes to balance them.

We now live in an era of almost constant change. First, new technologies continue to emerge at an ever-more rapid pace. Second, globalization brings with it new markets, new customers, nontraditional competitors, and new challenges. Third, the Internet has created much greater transparency to any company's strategy, actions, and performance. As a result of these forces, companies find that their strategies need almost constant redefinition—either because the old assumptions are no longer valid, or because the previous strategy has been imitated and neutralized by competitors, or because technological developments and globalization offer unanticipated opportunities. Rooted in these premises, the strategic challenge for organizations become: How to successfully create the future (Boxes 2 and 3) even while managing excellence in the present (Box 1)?

Specific leadership challenges include: How do we identify the market discontinuities (e.g., fundamental shifts in technology, customers, competitors, lifestyle/demographics, globalization, regulations, etc.) that could transform our industry? How do we analyze the opportunities and risks, as a result of our understanding of market discontinuities? How can we create new growth platforms (Box 3) with a view to exploit the market discontinuities? How do we selectively forget the past (Box 2)? What are our core competencies and how can we leverage them in the growth platforms? How do we allocate resources to support growth? What kind of organizational DNA must we have in order to anticipate and respond to changes on a continual basis? How do we execute breakthrough strategies?

LEARNING GOALS

At the end of the session, participants will be able to develop a framework to answer the following questions:

- Why do companies need to continuously innovate strategically?
- How can firms identify market discontinuities that shape the future evolution of the industry?
- How can firms exploit accelerating global opportunities, as a result of the discontinuous shifts in the marketplace?
- How can firms build the requisite organizational DNA to create the future while managing the present?
- How do you execute breakthrough strategies?

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Top and senior management from different functions of an organization.

Govindarajan's The Three Box Solution provides a framework for balancing the imperatives of the present with the demands of the future. It is a construct that permeates all our strategic thinking."

- Anand G. Mahindra,

Chairman and Managing Director, Mahindra Group

The three-box framework is powerful. The first box lulls you, the second is excruciatingly difficult, and most of us do not get to see the third – it's too late. While the status quo appears the easiest solution, Govindarajan uses examples – from sports to Hindu mythology – to inject three-box thinking into organizational DNA."

- K.V. Kamath,

President, New Development Bank BRICS;
Former Chairman and CEO, ICICI Bank

Leaders must continuously attend to Box 1, Box 2, and Box 3. Govindarajan offers a simple but powerful framework to achieve three-box balance."
